

American Heart Association
ACLS or PALS Instructor (Part-time)
$30-40/hour

About Us:

Project Heartbeat is an American Heart Association authorized training center established in 1996. Founded with the mission to "Save Lives Through Education", we have been positively impacting the health-care community by serving pre-hospital and clinic-based medical professionals. We currently teach American Heart Association (AHA) based, continuing education (CE) courses and other acute care curriculum. We are seeking dynamic health care providers to teach ACLS or PALS at our training center in Oakland, Ca.

Our courses and instructors receive high praise due to our commitment to giving more than just "your average class". We pride ourselves on being content-masters that provide a low-stress environment that is conducive to learning for the class participant.

About the role:

Candidates must be comfortable with speaking to large groups; adept at multi-tasking in the classroom environment; and be able to lead a group in theory-based discussions that turn quickly into realistic and appropriate skill-based scenarios.

Qualifications:

- *Must have field or clinic experience as a health care provider
- *Not required but highly preferred: Paramedic or Registered Nurse
- *One year minimum of teaching or clinical experience (not required but recommended)
- *One year minimum of teaching experience (not required but recommended)
- *Must be able to work independently and have skills in working/collaborating as part of a close-knit team.

Please email a copy of your resume, cover letter and list of references to info@projectheartbeat.com with "Instructor Position" in the subject field.
Final filing date: 12/31/2016

